

daughter began declaring that her feelings had come from school and how glad she was to be out of there. She stated "I used to feel God and then the feeling went away for a long time. When you took me out of the school I could feel God again." They knew Mr. Golden, all of our children know, and the parents know. This curriculum is wrong. It is a sick form of mental and emotional abuse. It is evil, and it is divisive. This does not unite humanity in any way, rather it destroys us from the inside out. This information should not be given to children for any reason. It is clear to see that the design of the curriculum is made in such a way as to expose the youngest of minds to subtle forms of darkness and intensify it as they go through the grade levels until they get to college, where full marxist and communist indoctrination can take hold.

Do I believe that our children should know the truth of history? Absolutely! But they need to do so in a way that is age appropriate. You do not indoctrinate, you educate and you teach critical thinking of the tragedy of our history, and then you teach love. I'm afraid that years from now generations of children will see the tragedy of what this nation has done recently. We will be a scourge in the history books as repeating something that we could not learn from. Something that we would not defend. There will be villains, and there will be Patriots. Which character will you be in the story Mr. Golden?

Sincerely,

X

Sent with ProtonMail Secure Email.

*****

Dear Mr. Golden,

I've attended a few "Mom's for Liberty" meetings and was shocked and appalled at what I had been seeing in our children's curriculum. I could not believe they were being taught this stuff, nor could I understand how it was accepted into the curriculum and who approved of this trash. I am a compassionate woman who needs no person to tell me who I am, and how my heart is designed when it comes to loving others. I know who I am and my children know who they are. Our skin color has never decided those factors. I honestly cannot believe I'm speaking such logic...simple logic that we have been taught since grade school. That "Character is not determined by skin color"

I pulled my kids from school mid year after witnessing how the masks and unstable learning was affecting them emotionally. I am an educated woman who once taught in the school system so I knew exactly what these children needed and didn't need. I did not however realize that my children, especially my daughter, had been exposed to such dark and evil messages. I was becoming concerned for a once vibrant child who lit up a room with laughter and playfulness and was now crying at the drop of a hat, having trouble at school, and looking so confused at the world around her. The more I probed the more upset she became. I thought it was hormones due to puberty and thought I would wait and see. Months passed after pulling them from public school and she started to come around again. She was once again my self motivated, happy daughter. I didn't understand where this was coming from until I heard of this new curriculum. I then began to ask my children if they had noticed anything at school in their learning that was upsetting them and they said they had not. Again, I was still perplexed and decided not to push the issue, that things would come out over time if something was there. Because children don't recall and process information the way that adult minds do.

Last night I attended the school board meeting with my children. We originally planned only to stay outside and hold signs but I felt compelled to enter and allow them to observe what is going on in the world around them. If the school board decided they were old enough to see and hear what is in those books then they are old enough to see truth and patriotism at work. Again, I was shocked at more of the content that was in those books and several times had my children cover their ears so that they would not be further damaged by what they would have been exposed to.

After we left the meeting the flood gates opened. My son began declaring the sadness of the Boris and Amos story, and how the story of the mouse wondering about what it would feel like to kill himself made him feel. My daughter began declaring that her feelings had come from school and how glad she was to be out of there. She stated "I used to feel God and then the feeling went away for a long time. When you took me out of the school I could feel God again." They knew Mr. Golden, all of our children know, and the parents know. This curriculum is wrong. It is a sick form of mental and emotional abuse. It is evil, and it is divisive. This does not unite humanity in any way, rather it destroys us from the inside out. This information should not be given to children for any reason. It is clear to see that the design of the curriculum is made in such a way as to expose the youngest of minds to subtle forms of darkness and intensify it as they go through the grade levels until they get to college, where full marxist and communist indoctrination can take hold.

Do I believe that our children should know the truth of history? Absolutely! But they need to do so in a way that is age appropriate. You do not indoctrinate, you educate and you teach critical thinking of the tragedy of our history, and then you teach love. I'm afraid that years from now generations of children will see the tragedy of what this nation has done recently. We will be a scourge in the history books as repeating something that we could not learn from. Something that we would not defend. There will be villains, and there will be Patriots. Which character will you be in the story Mr. Golden?

Sincerely,
X

Sent with ProtonMail Secure Email.