APERTURE EDUCATION

TUESDAY, NOVEMBER 2, 2 P.M. (ET)
INSIDE SEL:
A FIRESIDE CHAT WITH BRANDON FRAME
DIRECTOR OF SOCIAL EMOTIONAL LEARNING AT THE URBAN ASSEMBLY

The banner features a portrait of Brandon Frame, a man with a beard and a suit, smiling. The background is dark with a light-colored geometric shape in the bottom left corner.

Inside SEL: A Fireside Chat with Brandon Frame

Brandon is the Director of Social Emotional Learning at The Urban Assembly where he leads a team to assist schools and districts with SEL implementation, integration, evaluation, and sustainability. In this fireside chat he shares more on how to scale your SEL program, getting buy-in from stakeholders, and the impact of SEL.

Self-Management Skill Exploration

Self-Management Skill Exploration

Looking to take a deeper dive into the importance of Self-Management? In this workshop we engaged in meaningful conversations with educators like you on how to approach and model Self-Management for students, discussed strategies for building Self-Management, and developed an action plan for bringing what we talked about into the classroom, your program, or school.

Case Study

Aperture Partner Case Study: Lowell Public Schools

Lowell Public Schools is one of the largest school districts in Massachusetts and is home to more than 14,000 students from pre-kindergarten through 12th grade. Lowell's strategic plan centers around equity, excellence, and empowerment. As part of this plan, the district started focusing on the importance of the relationship and balance between academics, mental health, and social and emotional competence of students.
